CERTIFICATE

The pursuit of law has a social purpose notwithstanding the material allurements it offers; the discourse of law is discourse of civility and any society for it to remain civilized, requires the adherence and respect for law, the role of a lawyer is, thus challenging and requires sagacity. When a student of law joins the legal studies, she contrives or strives to achieve certain purposes for her but the true import of legal education lies in embodiment of a social purpose in her own set goals. Ms Akanksha Vashisht student of Vth Semester in B.A. LL.B(Hons) Programme at Fairfield, Institute of Management & Technology, has occasion to join me w.e.f 1st July, 2020 to 31st August, 2020 as a part of her internship programme. She had occasion to assist our team in conducting crucial cases listed before Hon'ble Supreme Court of India, High court of Delhi, Central Administrative Tribunal –Principal Bench, National Green Tribunal and some matters in District & Session Courts at Delhi. She has beautifully and with due diligence, done the research assigned to her. At all levels, she has displayed the quest for learning notwithstanding the fact that most of the legislations which involved the litigation in hand, were not the part of her course curriculum.

The inquisitiveness which I find, often impelled her to raise questions of law-whose answer required some background on settled principles of administrative and constitutional law, when she was informed of the source to read, it was encouraging to see that she is prepared with her readings the very next day. The liking which she has developed for profession, albeit not as a member of bar but as a bencher, impressed me to assign certain crucial assignments for upcoming litigation in hand. It is praiseworthy to record her research on the public law character of private bodies working for disability.

Notwithstanding the pressing professional commitment which we have to undertake immediately after reopening of courts, she has managed to tread me to academic discourses which she had broached and I failed to resist temptation of avoiding it at the cost of part heard matters.

I must record her appreciation for work done by her and wish her all success in life, I wish her to prepare herself well for being a capable and erudite professional on either side of bar or bench.

With best wishes.

CERTIFICATE

The pursuit of law has a social purpose notwithstanding the material allurements it offers; the discourse of law is discourse of civility and any society for it to remain civilized, requires the adherence and respect for law, the role of a lawyer is, thus challenging and requires sagacity. When a student of law joins the legal studies, he contrives or strives to achieve certain purposes for him, but the true import of legal education lies in embodiment of a social purpose in his own set goals. Mr. Harshit Dhamija student of Vth Semester in B.A. LL.B(Hons) Programme at Fairfield, Institute of Management & Technology, has occasion to join me w.e.f 1st July, 2020 to 31st August, 2020 as a part of his internship programme. He had occasion to assist our team in conducting crucial cases listed before Hon'ble Supreme Court of India, High court of Delhi, Central Administrative Tribunal –Principal Bench, National Green Tribunal, and some matters in District & Session Courts at Delhi. He has beautifully and with due diligence, done the research assigned to him. At all levels, he has displayed the quest for learning notwithstanding the fact that most of the legislations which involved the litigation in hand, were not the part of his course curriculum.

The inquisitiveness which I find, often impelled him to raise questions of law-whose answer required some background on settled principles of administrative and constitutional law, when he was informed of the source to read, it was encouraging to see that he is prepared with his readings the very next day. The liking which he has developed for profession, albeit not as a member of bar but as a bencher, impressed me to assign certain crucial assignments for upcoming litigation in hand. It is praiseworthy to record his research on the public law character of private bodies working for disability.

Notwithstanding the pressing professional commitment which we have to undertake immediately after reopening of courts, he has managed to tread me to academic discourses which he had broached and I failed to resist temptation of avoiding it at the cost of part heard matters.

I must record his appreciation for work done by him and wish him all success in life, I wish him to prepare himself well for being a capable and erudite professional on either side of bar or bench.

With best wishes.

NEXT DATE OF HEARING: 30 OCTOBER 2020

OBSERVATION

CONCLUSION

In the end, I would like to opine that the real legal practice is absolutely different from the theoretical version of law which we study. Without exposure to the real world, one cannot understand the analytical and positive application of law and jurisprudence and the actual function and structure of law. What we study is the body, what we learned from the internship is the mechanism of this body.

I was surprised to see how the simplest of laws were applicable in the most difficult of situations and how loopholes leave so much scope of evolution and improvisation today in this field. I also observed that the law is everything but constant with the same soul as that of a human. In other words, or as that of our counsel, law may come and law may repeal, but they must always be faithful to the constitution, which is the most supreme law of the land and governs all equals and unequal in respect of each other.

CONCLUSION

The time I spent at the office of Mr. Manish Bhardwaj taught me more than I could have possibly learnt in multiple months of book based learning in college. This is not to say that such learning is not necessary, but instead it just goes on to prove that for a successful and holistic academic experience one needs to bolster one's education through a mix of practical and theoretical knowledge.

Working late into the night looking up case laws for numerous cases may be tiring eventually, but the amount of insight such hard work provides into the life of a lawyer is truly unparalleled. The concept of a mandatory summer internship is praiseworthy as it makes sure that each and every law student in the college has worked for at least a month in a legal scenario.

Client interaction is another aspect of a court based internship that one cannot find merely in a classroom. Clients do not come forward with a plain, concise or even a comprehensive problem, unlike what you would find in a moot problem. Sometimes the client is clearly in the wrong and expects the lawyer to simply wave away the problem. During a particular interaction, the accused's family members (the accused was a client) expressed their disappointment at the lawyer's inability to get him bail, even though the accused had tried to escape from custody and beat up a police man in the process. One of the most intriguing aspects of interning with a lawyer is undoubtedly the interaction with clients. It is an art in itself, to learn how to handle obstinate, anxious, obnoxious or even rude clients if one is to sustain a livelihood in a market saturated with lawyers.

This internship also taught me the necessity of being on the good side of the bar association and affiliating oneself with the multiple social events organised by them, including the strikes. Being ostracised by the lawyer community is a real fear and is to be avoided at all costs.

In conclusion, this internship was a learning experience par none, not only on account of the legal aspect of matter learnt, but for all the life lessons that come with working hard in professional environment.

In the end, I would also like to thanks my professors, my family and my friends for being a fountain of love and support during the internship as well as at the time of drafting of this report.

INTRODUCTION

This report examines the internship program under Advocate Avinash chandra . My internship with my Advocate Avinash chandra started from 20-05-2020 to 20-06-2020 has immensely been a commendable learning experience for me. The internship delivered me insight look of the society through the medium of court practice, where I dealt with people directly to look into their problems under the guidance of my senior and other associates. With the help of them I was able to complete my internship with an excellent learning experience. I visited different district courts as per the different matters fixed in the court in daily routine. Where I got an opportunity to appear before the Hon'ble Judges and Magistrates and also to interact with the accused and to know the reason for the commission of their crime. Imprisonment offers, combining it with the essential restorative justice a meeting between offender, victim and community.

There is rule of law in our society followed in courts, is an aspect equality before the law which suggest that no person is above law and that every person, whatever be his rank, status or condition, is subject to jurisdiction of ordinary courts.

Rule of law requires that no person shall be subject to harsh, uncivilized or discriminatory treatment even when the object is the securing of paramount exigencies of law and order.

Concept and Purpose of Internship

- Assist students in identifying and acquiring the skills needed to enter a chosen field
- Provide practical work experience to balance the student's theoretical training.

CONCLUSION

In the end, I would like to say that the real legal practice is absolutely different from the theoretical version of law which we study. Without exposure to the real world, one cannot understand the analytical and positive application of law and jurisprudence and the actual function and structure of law. What we study is the theory, what we learned from the internship is the mechanism of this theory

I was surprised to see how the simplest of laws were applicable in the most difficult of situations and how loopholes leave so much scope for evolution and improvisation today in this field. I also observed that the law is everything but constant with the same soul as that of a human. In other words or as that of our counsel, law may come and law may repeal, but they must always be faithful to the constitution, which is the most supreme law of land and governs all equals and unequal in respect of each other.
